A Journal/Diary and a Notebook to be used exclusively for this class. This can include reflections, essays, etc.

Intercultural Journal: You will be required to write an intercultural journal through the duration of this course. The purpose of this assignment is to:

- 1. Critically analyze your feelings and reactions to the concepts/ material from class discussions or assigned readings.
- 2. Apply the concepts you have learned in this class
- 3. Reflect and examine your own evolution over this course

Use the following questions or thought guidelines in your writing (you are not limited to these, and you do not have to answer each of these questions each entry... these are just questions to get you started):

- 1. Did any topic in class surprised or impress you?
- 2. Was something said that was important to your understanding of cultural dynamics?
- 3. Do you agree or disagree with something that was said in class/readings/text? Elaborate.
- 4. When writing about any emotions that you might experience during the class or in doing the readings, it is especially useful if you can apply some of the concepts/materials to help you make sense of them.

- 5. Apply something that you learned in class to an intercultural experience outside class. Did the concept/idea/theory help you better understand your experience? Describe how? If it did not, explain why not? How would you change or clarify it?
- 6. Are there any ideas you wish we could explore further in a future class section?

I will be expecting 1 page per entry. Do make sure to react to the readings in order to demonstrate that you have done them. If you are a visually-oriented person and wish to include pictures, etc.

Every two/three/ weeks you will present your journal to the class and accept questions.

Out of Class Assignments: The Department of Education policy states that one (1) credit hour is the amount of student work that reasonably approximates not less than one hour of class time and two (2) hours of out-of-class time per week over the span of a semester. WASC has adopted a similar requirement.

Course Grading Based on Course Objectives

Evaluation Procedures

Grading is determined on the following criteria:

Discussion/Participation/In-class activities/Journals/ 30%

Papers/10%

Presentations/individual/group/Projects 40%

Exams/Final 30%

(Not taking the Final exam can cause you to fail the class!)

The points you EARN determine grades. The total points possible will be determined as the semester concludes. Usually, the amount ranges between 200-250 points, depending on the size of the class. All grades will reflect level of scholarship, initiative, attitude, cooperation and individual improvement demonstrated throughout the course. Your homework assignments are to be typed and doubled spaced.

The following percentages illustrate the breakdown.

100-91% = A Superior 90-81% = B Above average 80-71% = C Average 70-65% = D Below Average 64% or > = F

Attendance

- A student who fails to attend the first meeting of a class or does not complete the first mandatory activity of an online class will be dropped by the instructor as of the first official meeting of that class.
- Should readmission be desired, the student's status will be the same as that of any other student who desires to add a class. It is the student's responsibility to drop or officially withdraw from the class. See General Catalog for details.
- Regular attendance in all classes is expected of all students. A student whose continuous, unexcused absences exceed the number of hours the class is scheduled to meet per week may be dropped. For online courses, students who fail to complete required activities for two consecutive weeks may be considered to have excessive absences and may be dropped.
- Absences attributed to the representation of the college at officially approved events (conferences, contests, and field trips) will be counted as 'excused' absences.

Attendance is crucial because class activities and speeches involve participation with your classmates. Missed class is treated as an absence. Students have a right to a positive learning experience and therefore students that are disruptive will be asked to leave. If you plan on dropping the class do so before the due date. If you miss class it is the responsibility of the student to get caught up. You must be on time. If you are late you will not be permitted to take a test/quiz if given. Coming in late could also deduct points from your participation. Absolutely, no one walks in when a person is giving a speech or I am lecturing!

Five points could be deducted from your presentation or your overall grade! More than two absences and you are dropped from class and/or your final grade could be downgraded! If you have a serious situation that requires an additional absence then the instructor must approve it. The approval will be judged case by case and will be at the instructor's discretion.

The class will be interactive, but keep in mind that we can only focus on one speaker at a time, so when you are not speaking, please be courteous and respectful. Do not conduct side conversations that disrupt the class or work on other issues than those involving this class. This will be noted and will have a negative impact on your participation grade. You may be asked to leave!

• Note: It is imperative that you attend each class and be fully prepared when you come to class. Do not leave early. Make your appointments around your class. Not your class around your appointments.

IT IS YOUR RESPONSIBILITY TO DROP THIS COURSE!

Class Work

Students are expected to work effectively in diverse groups and groups to achieve tasks. They must collaborate and function well in team settings as both leaders and followers. They should respect human diversity and behave in a committed, tolerant, respectful, and professional manner toward colleagues and peers. Skills developed through learning team collaboration include: communication (both written and oral), critical thinking, interpersonal skills, active listening, organization/time management, and conflict resolution. There will be homework assignments.

All homework assignments are to be typed, doubled spaced and with font twelve.

Some assignment will require research.

Do not use Wikipedia as your source!

Participation

Students will come to class prepared to engage the topic and respond to class discussion questions.

Students will respect the instructor and other student's opinions. Participation is not simply agreeing or disagreeing with a premise. It is explaining, defining, and sharing experiences, clarifying terms or perspectives. Don't just tell us you agree but explain your reasoning or experiences. Don't feel intimidated by your fellow students. Everyone has something of significance to share! Your experiences and perception are an integral part of who you are.

There are many different forms of academic dishonesty. The following kinds of honesty violations and their definitions are not meant to be exhaustive. Rather, they are intended to serve as examples of unacceptable academic conduct.

• Plagiarism is taking and presenting, as one's own the writings or ideas of others, without citing the source. You should understand the concept of plagiarism and keep it in mind when taking exams and preparing written materials. If you do not understand how to "cite a source" correctly, you must ask for help.

• Cheating is defined as fraud, deceit, or dishonesty in an academic assignment, or using or attempting to use materials, or assisting others in using materials that are prohibited or inappropriate in the context of the academic assignment in question.

Anyone caught cheating or plagiarizing will receive a zero (0) on the exam or assignment, and the instructor may report the incident to the Campus Disciplinary Officer, who may place related documentation in a file. Repeated acts of cheating may result in an F in the course and/or disciplinary action. Please refer to the General Catalog for more information on academic dishonesty or other misconduct. Acts of cheating include, but are not limited to, the following: (a) plagiarism; (b) copying or attempting to copy from others during an examination or on an assignment; (c) communicating test information with another person during an examination; (d) allowing others to do an assignment or portion of an assignment; (e) using a commercial term paper service.

- Anyone who disrupts the learning process in the classroom will be asked to leave. Examples of disruptive behavior include, but not limited to, the following: talking while the instructor or another person is addressing the class. Talking while students are making presentations. Inappropriate non-verbal behavior e.g., leaving the classroom before the class is finished, etc.
- Cell phones, iPods, computers and other electronic or battery operated devices are to be turned off before entering class—unless approved ahead of time by instructor.

- Children in the classroom: Due to college rules and state laws, no one who is not enrolled in the class may attend, including children.
- Leaving class early or arriving late can count as a partial absence. You could be dropped from the class if you miss more than two classes. Missing a speech assignment can count as a double absence.
- Scheduled tests will usually be given at the beginning of each class—tests will not be given to students who arrive late for class.

Make-up tests are rare and depend upon the instructor's discretion!
